- Occupational Outlook Handbook—Labor statistics from the U.S. Department Labor <https://www.bls.gov/ooh/>

If you're not sure where to begin, Career Services and Advising can guide you through the exploration process. Stop into our office during walk-in hours (listed below) or call 978-665-3151 to set up an appointment.

JOB SEARCH RESOURCES

- Handshake—Use Handshake to search for career opportunities across 400k+ companies, get job and internship recommendations that match your interests and skills, and ask for advice from students who got great jobs. <https://joinhandshake.com/>
- Idealist—The Idealist Career Center lists jobs, internships, and volunteer opportunities in the nonprofit sector. <http://www.idealist.org>

- Indeed—Indeed pulls job postings from thousands of websites and puts them all in one place. Some employers also post jobs directly on Indeed. <https://www.indeed.com/>
- LinkedIn—In addition to being a networking tool, LinkedIn hosts a job board so you can leverage connections to help you land jobs. <https://www.linkedin.com>
- Industry-specific Job Sites—Many industries have job listing sites specific to the field. Please contact Career Services and Advising for a list.
- Professional organizations—Most professional organizations include job listings on their site (i.e., AIGA, the professional association for design). Check with your advisor or professors for leading professional organizations in your field.

NETWORK

Use your Alumni Network. Seek out and build relationships with Alumni who are in an industry that aligns with your interests. You can find potential alumni networking contacts on:

- LinkedIn—<https://www.linkedin.com>

Leverage personal contacts. Let family, friends, professors, current and past employers, internship supervisors and social media contacts know you are looking for a position. Your network can be a great source of information about jobs in the hidden job market.
