15. What did we not ask you about but you feel we should know?

In terms of the School Counseling program, I think it needs a review/update. There are a few great professors who truly challenge their students with real world situations, while there are some who have not been in the field in 20 years and don't realize what the job is truly like now. For example, they put a large

- amount of emphasis on lesson planning; as a guidance counselor in an inner city school, who does complete lessons and small lunch groups, I do not develop lesson plans the way they teach at FSU. Future counselors need to be more familiar with 504's, child find teams, 51A's, how to deal with difficult parents, and understanding the role more realistically.
