MEd in Arts Education

Intermediate Choral Conducting – MUSC 8004 – 3 credits
The Intermediate Choral Conducting course involves score preparation, rehearsal participation, and conducting in rehearsals and a final concert. DVD’s pertaining to diction, choral techniques by leading clinicians and DVD/CD’s of literature and performance ensembles of note will be listened to and critiqued from the standpoint of conducting. Students will attend weekly both Chamber Singers and Choir in the Fitchburg State setting (3 hours contact time total). Following each rehearsal there will be 30 minutes of constructive criticism with the students and instructor. Class time will be held at another time for 2 hours of contact. Reading, time with the scores, and listening/watching to materials provided by the instructor will constitute weekly work by the students outside of class.

MEd in Arts Education

Musical Arranging – MUSC 8005 – 3 credits
Students gain knowledge of ranges, transportation, unique characteristics of instruments and voices and their use in traditional ensembles. Students apply this knowledge to arrange selections with their own creative dimensions.

MEd in Arts Education

Graduate Applied Music - MUSC 8150 – 3 credits
This directed study will provide advanced graduate vocal or instrumental instruction. Prerequisite: Students are required to prove their proficiency before registration is allowed.

MEd in Arts Education

Advanced Graduate Studio – ART 8150 – 3 credits
After writing the intent or focus of their artwork, students will create personal visual art products based on the building blocks of value, alteration, shape, balance, dominance, graduation, depth and focal point. Students will make self-diagnoses and prognoses to treat problems in their works to achieve their previously written intent before attempting to complete their product. Prerequisite: Art degree or permission of the instructor.

MEd in Arts Education

Art and Human Development - ART 8500 – 3 credits
This course examines the production, history, criticism and philosophy of art. Students experience slide lectures as well as a museum trip during which noted works of art are examined from a formal, contextual and philosophical point of view involved in their creation. Students create art works applying this information. Prerequisite: Art degree or permission of the instructor.

MEd in Arts Education

Art Presentation - ART 9090 – 3 credits
A student creates a culminating project in art under the supervision/direction of an art faculty member or the program chairperson. A student planning an exhibit of his/her works should have the majority of them created for this exhibit. Prerequisite: Must successfully complete at least 18 semester hours in the program.

MEd in Arts Education

Music Presentation - MUSC 9090 – 3 credits
A student creates a culminating project in music under the supervision/direction of a music faculty member or the program chairperson. A student planning a recital should prepare to present a majority of new works not previously in his/her repertoire. Prerequisite: Must successfully complete at least 18 semester hours in the program and demonstrate mastery of the subject.
New Courses

MEd in Curriculum and Teaching

Introduction to Strategies for Effective Literacy Instruction Across the Disciplines – EDUC 7057 – 3 credits
Designed for teachers in Grades 5-12, this course addresses research-supported "best practices" focused on improving students' reading, writing, speaking and reasoning skills across the content areas are addressed.

Offered through extended campus partner, Catherine Leahy-Brine Educational Consultants.

MEd in Curriculum and Teaching

Topics in Statistical Reasoning - EDUC 8007 – 3 credits
Participants will become more discerning consumers of research. Topics include measures of central tendency, dispersion and relationship, as well as hypothesis testing using inferential techniques such as t-test, ANOVA, and chi-square at the advanced level.

Offered through extended campus partner, Catherine Leahy-Brine Educational Consultants.
New Courses

MEd in Curriculum and Teaching

Advanced Analysis of Reading for the Elementary and Early Childhood Teacher - EDUC 9103 – 3 credits

This course is based upon recent research and is designed to assist practicing teachers to develop advanced assessment and analysis skills of reading ability. Participants will explore concepts addressing different facets of the reading/writing assessment process.

MEd

Using Technology to Enhance Student Achievement - EDUC 7203 – 3 credits

This course will introduce participants to expanding the walls of the traditional classroom with the technology currently available to interact with students. Course participants will be introduced to the tools to supplement the traditional classroom setting and help engage students by using new and exciting formats that meet this generation's expectations and learning styles. Topics covered will include: enhancing presentations, creating content with the latest technologies and tools, continuing discussions outside of the classroom, managing the class outside the classroom, virtual classroom settings and the world of online learning.

MEd

Dynamic Perspectives in Education – SPED/EDUC/EDLM 9005 – 3 credits

Required course for MEd in Special Education: Guided Studies Professional Track

Course brings together candidates from across programs to analyze key issues facing educators today. Focal points will include curricular and instructional decisions, legislative mandates, diversity and special education. Personal biases will be examined.

MEd in Special Education

Understanding Disabilities and Diversity - SPED 7024 – 3 credits

Required course for MEd in Special Education: Moderate and Severe Disabilities. Replaces SPED 7004.

Candidates will gain understanding of how to use technology to support communication skills and address curriculum needs for students with moderate to severe disabilities. Focus will be on strategies for integrating technology into educational programming.

MEd in Special Education

Action Research for Special Education – SPED 9021 – 3 credits

Required course for MEd in Special Education: Guided Studies Professional Track

This seminar supports graduate candidates completing the Special Education Guided Studies program with an Action Research Project. Projects combine solid theoretical knowledge with effective teaching practices to have a positive impact on student learning.
New Courses

MEd in Special Education: Severe Disabilities

Program Development Across the Life Span – SPED 8026 – 3 credits

Required course for MEd in Special Education: Severe Disabilities. Replaces SPED 8023 & SPED 8024.

Domains of community, domestic, recreation, vocational and social relationships are addressed along with the importance of accessing services provided by other agencies. Family-professional partnerships are explored and strategies for promoting transition outcomes are examined.

MS in Applied Communication

Health Communication and Social Change – COMM 8112– 3 credits

Applied Communication scholars have contributed substantially to the study of communication practices of groups, organizations and communities working towards social change, including studies of public health campaigns and activism. Given the current changes in the social, political, and economic contexts in which health care is delivered, public health practitioners must learn to develop effective campaigns to promote change in attitudes and/or behaviors, to improve social and economic conditions, to advance social policies, and to secure necessary resources. This course will explore the theories and methods that inform various social change strategies, activist projects and campaigns, along with specific examples of communication strategies used in planning, implementation, and evaluation of public health campaigns and initiatives.
